Learning Strategy – "Landeskunde" Tips

The apartments, cities and landscapes you will see, as well as the behavior and communication styles of the people you will get to know, will naturally give you an impression of how and in what kind of surroundings people in German speaking countries live. Please do not forget that these are only individual examples. They should not become the basis for generalizations about characteristics or qualities that are “typical” for the people and the environment of a German speaking cultural circle.
Like everywhere, there are also big differences here:

Many people in German speaking countries do not live in a Wohngemeinschaft (shared apartment)!
Not all apartment buildings have six floors and some canaries do sing!
Not all tenants answer as politely as Carsten and Angela!
And, not all cities are beautiful, nor do they all have historical buildings and famous poets!
